A HISTORY OF FIGHTING FIRES

Since 1987, the staff at Midwest Fire has worked alongside firefighters, designing and manufacturing products that save lives and protect property.

We're proud to serve you and appreciate the confidence you have in our products and the people committed to building the best firefighting products.

Overview

- Proud legacy of working with firefighters and EMS
- Reliable service and competitive warranties for each truck
- 33,000 square foot facility that includes fabrication, assembly, paint and repair
- Highest level of quality and craftsmanship made in the USA
- Built on a variety of chassis

Key Strengths

- We work directly with customers (never through dealers) to keep costs down
- We communicate well throughout the entire sales and manufacturing process
- We produce some of the most innovative tankers and pumpers on the market
- We specialize in customizing your apparatus to fit your firefighting needs
- All-Poly® tankers and tanker-pumpers in-stock and ready for delivery

CREATE·A·SPEC

Having confidence in your firefighting apparatus is crucial to your safety, and the safety of others. Create-A-Spec gives you the ability to customize your firefighting vehicle with the options you need to best perform your firefighting tasks. Found on our website at www.midwestfire.com, Create-A-Spec has all the options you need to slay dragons.

Start with our All-Poly® tank and body. Made from high quality,  $\frac{3}{4}$ " and  $\frac{1}{2}$ " copolymer polypropylene and more impact resistant than steel or aluminum, our All-Poly® tanks and bodies are constructed with leak-proof extrusion welds that are guaranteed never to rust or corrode.

Capable of holding up to 4,000 gallons and built with a low center of gravity means that you will deliver large amounts of water safely and efficiently. Better yet, All-Poly® tanks and bodies come with a lifetime warranty. Midwest Fire also builds Galvanneal, Stainless Steel and Aluminum bodies that come with a 10 year body warranty.
